Student Empowerment

By Principal, Robert Mackay

This spring Project M.O.R.E. students were faced with a crisis. A proposal to declare Project M.O.R.E. a “New School” was presented by the TUSD Administration. This proposal required that all teachers needed to re-apply for their jobs and there was a risk the school would lose a number of the current staff. This was unacceptable to the student body, so the students jumped into action. Students started with a petition to stop the New School process and this petition was signed by almost every student. Next the students sent emails, wrote letters, and helped organize a “Friends of Alternative Education” group which included their parents, relatives and friends. All this culminated at a rally at a TUSD School Board meeting which was attended by hundreds of supporters of Alternative Education. The “Friends” made and waved signs, sang songs and delivered speeches.

THE STUDENTS WON!!!!!!!!!!

The School Board relented and kept all the teachers. This was a clear and poignant example of the power of the Project M.O.R.E. students. Next year the school will begin a Transformation process designed to improve the school. Educational experts from all over are going to come in and make recommendations on how to change Project M.O.R.E. But the most important voices—the students voices—are the ones that really must be heard. Students need to be involved in all major decisions (hiring, schedules, curriculum, discipline, and more), and this involvement must be meaningful. Students deserve a vote. They’ve earned this right.

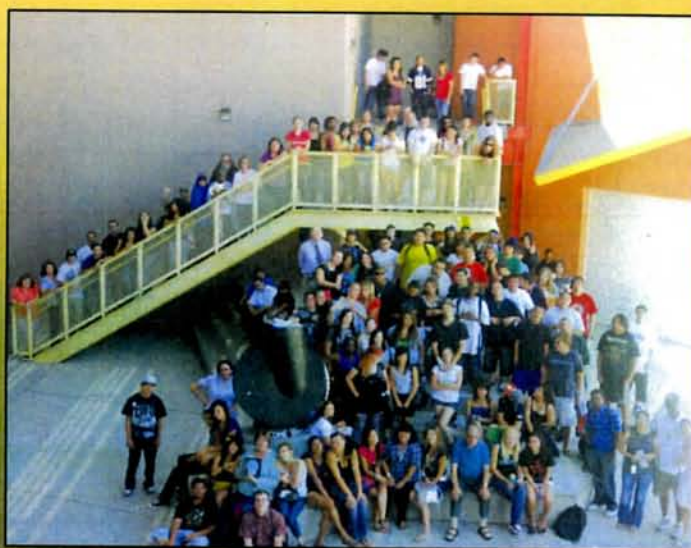

Project M.O.R.E.

MISSION STATEMENT

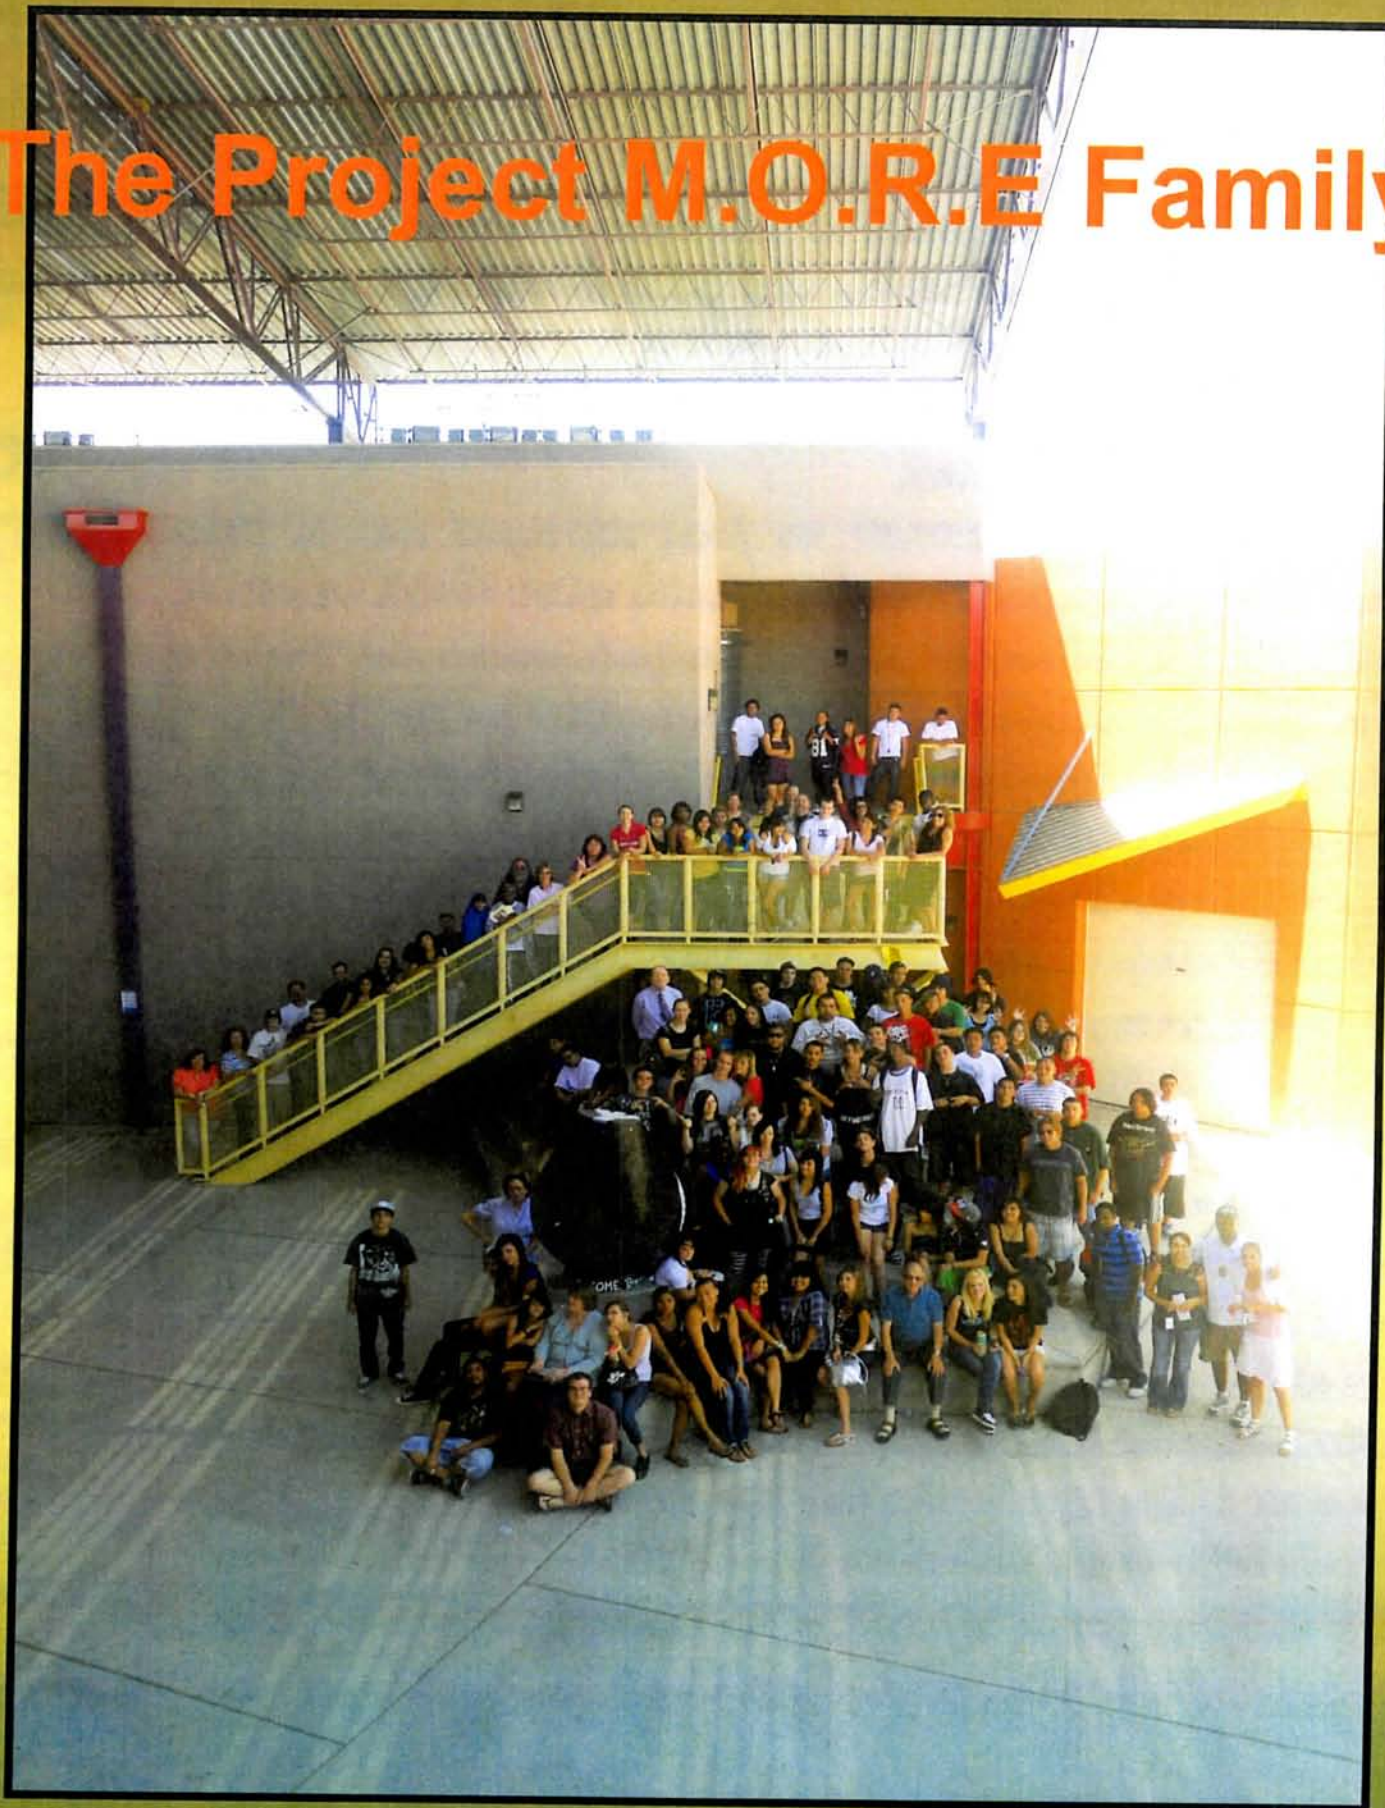

To be the schools of first choice by providing cost-effective educational solutions that enhance district efforts to attract and retain students, provide credit recovery, and promote the academic and social growth of at-risk youth in non-traditional learning environments.

PHILOSOPHY STATEMENT

All students can learn. Students learn in different ways. All students can succeed when provided with a setting that best suits their individual needs and learning styles. A small school environment enables disenfranchised students to achieve the status of life-long learners and productive global citizens.

The Project M.O.R.E Family

There's an Elephant in the Room!

It's a sign of the times... Last school year (2008-09) started out as usual, positive and supportive as any other school year in Project M.O.R.E.'s recent history. As the year progressed though, a number of challenges appeared. For starters, the State of Arizona made deep cuts in educational funding. Project M.O.R.E. also lost staff. And supplies were scarce.

Then this year... (2009-10) we faced additional cuts in State funding, and were tagged an underperforming school. Which we are not. These challenges and more left our staff, students, parents and "Friends of Project M.O.R.E." all questioning our commitment to our TUSD Alternative Education's way of life. We were challenged to defend our styles of teaching, learning, and of continuing to create a dynamic educational community with a rich, diverse, and engaging curriculum, meeting the academic State Standards, but in an "Alternative" fashion.

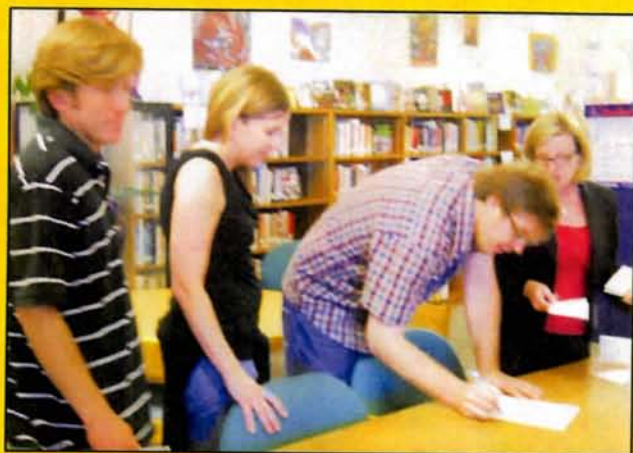

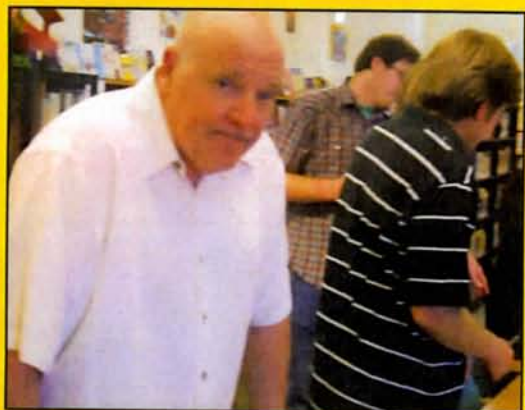

Our students, parents and "Friends" spoke and the staff listened. We met with the TUSD Board of Directors and our students spoke again... intelligently and eloquently. Our students made every teacher and administrator in the room proud. Real proud. They asked the Board to keep the staff at Project M.O.R.E. intact. They asked the Board to keep Project M.O.R.E. intact. At the time of this Yearbook printing we don't have all the answers, yet we know that the TUSD Board did listen and did hear what our students said. The story will continue to unravel and we are all hoping that Alternative Education will have the freedom to continue to thrive and meet the needs of our diverse population of students who collectively "dance to a different drummer." Give us the chance to continue to thrive and we won't let you down!

THANK YOU, TUSD BOARD OF DIRECTORS!

What a wonderful way to start a year!

"Pink slips" for all... it was a sad day for Project M.O.R.E.'s administrators and us seasoned teachers who teach what we love and love to teach... We were all in this together, and it became an opportunity to reaffirm our commitment to education, and to support each other as a staff.

WE LOVE PROJECT M.O.R.E.!!

Students, former students, parents, guardians, family members and other "Friends of Project MORE" gathered in front of the TUSD Headquarters on the night of the April Board of Directors meeting. Everyone was concerned about the rumors that Project MORE was closing and word got out that the Teachers were all being let go. A large, dedicated, supportive crowd gathered to hawk signs, chant, sing and hold a candlelight vigil, to make it known that there was much concern for the Project MORE students if those predictions were to come true... News channels showed up to interview students and get video footage recording the unexpected level of support for the Teachers and Staff and making sure the school was going to remain intact. That night, in the Board room, Board members gained an alternative view of TUSD's Alternative Education schools. They decided to table the motion to reverse the decision to let the Project MORE Teachers go, in order to study and better understand the issues. This entire process inadvertently became a powerful, hands-on lesson on Democracy in action for our students. And Teachers and Staff left the meeting feeling appreciated by our students, like never before. Thank you students for supporting us and respectfully and publicly demonstrating your points of view!

Project MORE's Roots and Shoots class had the amazing opportunity to meet the one and only JANE GOODALL!!! Jane Goodall made the ground breaking discovery that chimps possess human-like qualities. She is a major leader of environmental activists and is the founder of the National Roots and Shoots program. Her goal is to teach young adults about environmental problems facing the world today.

A few select Project MORE students presented to Jane Goodall our school's Roots and Shoots activities. Then later we got the chance to listen to one of her inspirational speeches. It was a proud day for Project MORE. Definitely one to remember!

Kathryn's Glass-blowing Art Class

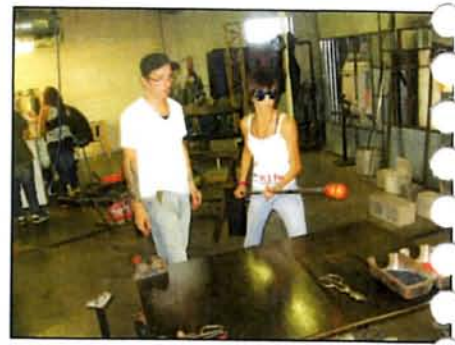

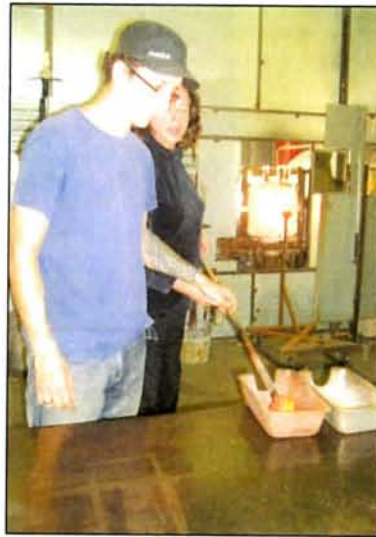

This year Project M.O.R.E. had a great opportunity in the arts. We were the recipients of a sizable grant that SGAA and Kathryn wrote to attend a glass-blowing class at the Sonoran Glass Art Academy. Our students were given the choice of working in the "torch room" making small pieces of beads, jewelry human figures, pendants, flowers, or anything their imagination and increased experience led them, or the "hot room." In the hot room (great name for it) since the room had one melted glass furnace for dipping into to gather glass, and two furnaces to keep their glass hot while working their pieces once their glass was taking shape. It was hot unless we were sitting under the cooler breeze.

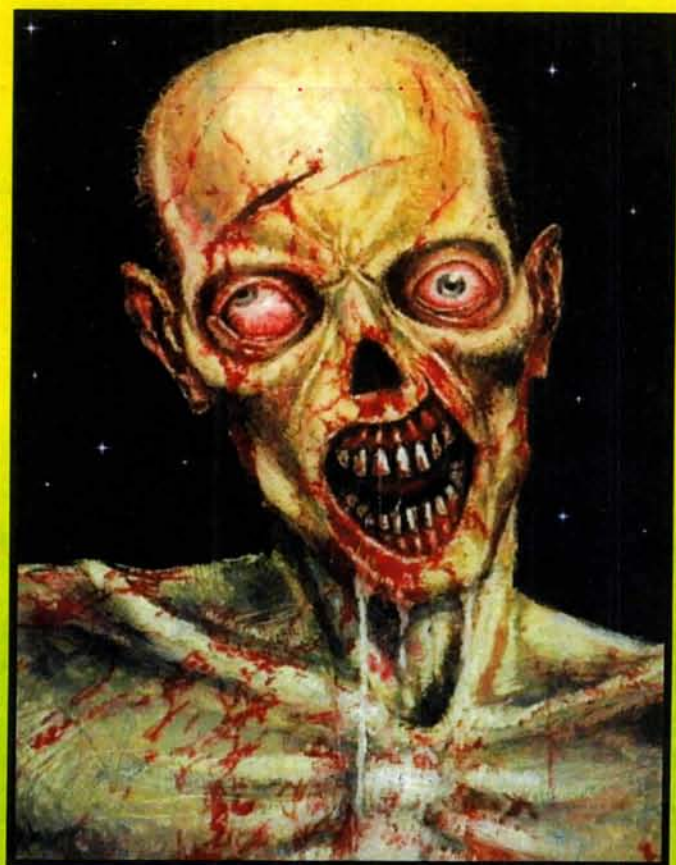

Students learned techniques to create paper weights, cups, bowls, vessels, and vases. Our instructors, William, Jason and Karl, and Assistant Director Alex, were patient teachers and accomplished glass artists.

We were fortunate to receive the grant and the support to practice an art form new to all of us.
